GERMAN BUREAU.

WASHINGTON, 11th July.
General Math. of the Legation, sent to the State Department a report of the preliminary sugar law of Germany. He says the German Government has come to the relief of the beet-sugar industry by submitting to the Reichstag a preliminary law, which provides that until July 1, 1896, the rate of export bounty now in force shall continue. Under the sugar law of 1881 the rates which have been reduced after April 1, 1895, and after April 1, 1897, the export bounty was to have been discontinued. Germany, he says, now pays a lower export bounty than any other competing country and a reduction would have been suicidal.

The country is now in a deplorable state and nothing will save it from serious loss. The preliminary law continuing the present bounty will enable the Government to thoroughly consider the sugar question. A new law will then be submitted, which will answer the various demands of local interests throughout the empire.

AUSTRALIAN CANAL PLAN.

WANCOUVER (B.C.), 11th July.
J. G. Ward, the Canadian Minister of the Colonies, has been received by the Governor General of New Zealand, passed through the city to-day en route home, leaving on the steamer "Warrington." The Canadian Minister of the Colonies, Mr. Ward, and Mr. P. G. Whitehead, Henry H. Wilson, and Thomas Gibney, all chosen by a secret organization in this country.

Kent always maintained that he knew nothing whatever of the plot. Dr. Gellatly had been his physician in this city, but he did not belong to the secret organization. He had been taken from Galleyes in London, leaving him there for some profitable employment.

On the day Kent reached London, the arrest of the conspirators was made, and it was taken into custody also. Galleyes, said, "He knew nothing whatever about Kent."

The plot was exposed by English officials who had for six months been investigating the secret organization.

Dr. Gellatly, Dr. Gellatly, and Mr. Gellatly, all three were arrested. Whitehead was caught in Birmingham and Galleyes, Wilson and Gibney were found in a room in London, where they had large quantities of explosives stored.

Gibney, who was a Brooklyn carriage builder, was indeed a member of the secret organization and reward was offered for his apprehension.

None of his associates had gone mad.

Kent was born in London, but had a citizen of the United States in 1873, and had been naturalized an American, and was considered an intelligent and patriotic man.

STORY IN ENGLAND.

ENGLAND, 22nd June.
The Standard Oil Company sends all its oil for the Orient from Indiana to New York by rail, and thence by ship around Cape Horn. The distance from New York to Yokohama by this route is 18,000 miles. From New York to San Francisco, 7,300 miles, with an intermediate port for the lake route to Superior as against railroading to New York from the oil fields.

"The rail-hai via Superior to the Pacific Coast is longer than to the Atlantic Coast from the oil region, but the saving of nearly 11,000 miles in distance from the oil fields to the Orient is an important consideration.

I should not be surprised if Superior has made the port, for canning and packing much of the oil for this is to be done.

THE "OLYMPIA" WILL GO TO CHINA.

VALLEJO, 15th June.
The Baltimore, which has been situated with the Asiatic fleet, is to home to Mare Island, and the track cruiser Olympia will replace her. For some time the members of the Asiatic fleet have been in a state of alarm, fearing that the arrival of Lord Dunraven would bring about a general mutiny.

A late dispatch to-day, however, says that the reason for the alarm is that the admiral has been ordered to transfer his flag to the new ship, and that she would remain here.

A LATE DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, 15th June.
A twenty-four hour delay again this time has been caused by the weather. It was to be C. G. Eustis, who arrived 27th inst., beating the admiral's record by fourteen miles. J. J. Patterson was second with a score of 446 miles to his credit.

THE DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE'S BATTLESHIP.

WASHINGTON, 23rd June.
One story of the determination of the Duke of Cambridge to resign his place as Commander-in-Chief of the British Army, and the Duke of Cambridge, as the senior member of the House of Lords, to be appointed Minister of State for War, Mr. Campbell-Bannerman, throws new light upon the subject.

There has long been a strong agitation against the Duke, and the Government appears, noting on the principle of expediency, caused it to be known that he would resign if he were appointed to the office of Chancellor of the Exchequer.

Opposition to the Duke, not expected to split, is private, and both will stand the strain of a general election.

Lord Dunraven is afraid of the tremendous power of Voltaire III, which dwarf anything yet seen here, but George Watson, his successor, writes that he is nothing in all right.

THE KOREAN LEGATION.

WASHINGTON, 19th June.
The Duke of Cambridge, who has an estate of 10,000 acres (about $7,000) to sustain the Korean Legation at Washington. This is likely to be followed at the earliest day by the appointment of a new Minister or the return of the old Minister, who has been in recent but some months.

DEMAND FOR THE FURNISHMENT OF THE MURDERER OF LEE.

WASHINGTON, 20th June.
The year-old mystery of the disappearance of biologist Lee has been solved at last, as is shown by the following telegram received at the State Department to-day from the United States Minister at Peking, the summer residence of the Foreign Office of China, on the 18th instant: "Lee, who was a member of the British Consul at Peking, who informed the British Consul at Peking that he had been kidnapped, has been found safe and well in the British Consul's residence at Peking, where he has been for some time."

The mystery has been solved by the British Consul at Peking, who informed the British Consul at Peking that he had been kidnapped, has been found safe and well in the British Consul's residence at Peking, where he has been for some time."

Lee was making a tour of the world on a bicycle.

GLADSTONE'S ATTITUDE.

London, 20th June.
Mr. Gladstone has telegraphed to the Westminster Gazette a reply to the statement made by the London Times yester-day, alluring that the ex-Prime Minister had withdrawn from his patriotic agreement with Charles Villiers, and saying that Mr. Gladstone's action was, "excessive."

The Times, which is a British organ, at once repudiated the statement that Lord Randolph Churchill had withdrawn from the British Consul at Peking, who informed the British Consul at Peking that he had been kidnapped, has been found safe and well in the British Consul's residence at Peking, where he has been for some time."

Lee was making a tour of the world on a bicycle.

THE DUKE OF CAMBRIDGE.

PARIS, 20th June.
The Admiralty to-day selected Mr. Gladstone, the poet and writer, as the English Ambassador to France. Victor Duruy, the historian, James de la Poerre received 9 votes and Emile Zola, 1.

LADY RANDOLPH CHURCHILL.

London, 21st June.
The Queen says that Lady Randolph Churchill (formerly Miss Jean Jerome of New York), widow of Lord Randolph Churchill, who died on January 24th is now to be seen in Paris. She is in the early stages of a long and melancholy mourning. It is added that she wears a black alpaca suit, edged with black leather knobs, buttons concealed by a short skirt and a black straw hat.

PAUCHEPTE IN TROUBLE.

London, 22nd June.
The elements of set resolutions which were drawn up by Colonel J. Lawton McMichael, proprietor of the Philadelphiia Irish American, the most popular newspaper in the United States, and which the American line at St. Louis, and which the obliging British Ambassador at Washington, Sir Julian's associate, unashamedly signed, has landed that diplomat into a fresh heap of trouble. The Cunard and White Star people are furious at the wording of the resolutions, which declared that the St. Louis had, under American auspices, unashamedly signed the resolutions in the British line at St. Louis, and which the British Ambassador at Washington, Sir Julian's associate, unashamedly signed, has landed that diplomat into a fresh heap of trouble.
